Allied Leaders Review Grand Strategy As Casablanca Promises Are Renewed Following Finale of Tunisia Campaign; Winter Wheat, Rye Dip to 1936 Levels

TUNISIA:
Steak and Potatoes

While captured German generals were putting down steaks, potatoes, and peaches in an American prison camp after they had surrendered with thousands of their troops, Allied forces sealed the fate of the remnants of the once proud Afrika Korps on rocky Cape Bon peninsula.

Blasted by swarms of Allied planes ruling the skies and an Allied fleet that stood off of Tunisia ready to crush any attempt at evacuation, the 80,000 Axis soldiers that retired to the skinny neck of land faced their doom, resisting to the last.

No less than six Axis generals, led by Maj.-Gen. Willibald Borowietz, surrendered to Maj.-Gen. Omar N. Bradley, the infantry specialist who commanded the American can Second army in its dramatic break through the rugged enemy positions in Northern Tunisia.

The American forces continued to mop up around Bizerte where scattered bands of Nazis entrenched in the hills continued firing till their last round of ammunition. Much enemy material was recovered, since the German generals agreed to turn it over undamaged as one of the terms of surrender.

Also offering fierce resistance was a formidable Axis group holding out against the British Eighth army in the south. Cut off from the remnants of the northern Axis forces, this group stuck to the mountain fastnesses, while British artillery and infantry picked them slowly to pieces. Even the Nazis realized that these scattered forces were inexorably doomed.

FARM CROPS:
Light Prospects

Winter wheat and rye crops will be the smallest since 1936, the department of agriculture predicted early this month.

Production of winter wheat should approximate 515 million bushels, almost 200 million bushels less than last year, the department said. Yields per acre should average 15.5 bushels.

Thirty-six million bushels of rye should be harvested, over 20 million bushels less than 1942, the department reported. Each acre should yield 11.7 bushels.

Condition of tame hay was placed at 81 per cent of normal. Pastures were said to be 78 per cent of normal. Stocks of hay on farms early in the month totaled over 13 million tons, well over last year's.

PACIFIC:
Air Warfare

Striking back at Japanese bases northwest of Australia, Allied airmen destroyed or damaged 23 enemy planes in a heavy raid on Babo, Dutch New Guinea. Bombs also were dropped on oil tanks and docks, and flames visible for 80 miles licked the installations.

In China, heavy and medium bombers of the 14th American air force swooped down on the Japanese airdrome at Canton, razing hangars, fuel storage dumps, repair shops and factories. Accompanying fighters shot down 13 enemy planes, and Liberator tail gunners accounted for three others.

SOLDIER MAIL:
Now Can Get Packages

American soldiers serving overseas no longer need obtain permission from commanding officers to receive packages from home.

If Johnny Doughboy asks that a package be sent to him, it will be delivered without any further formality, save that the parcel must be of the current specified size and weight. The soldier's envelope must be presented when mailing the package.

GRAND STRATEGY:
FDR, Churchill Meet

No sooner had Axis resistance in Tunisia collapsed than Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain was on his way to Washington to map the next step in the Allied grand strategy with President Roosevelt.

Although plans for an invasion of Europe loomed largest in the discussions, the situation in the Pacific also was given much consideration. Continued Japanese aerial assaults on Australia and the pressure the enemy was exerting on General Wavell's forces on the frontier in India, were said to be of concern to the conferees.

The two leaders re-emphasized their "unconditional surrender" decision of Casablanca.

Official quarters predicted the formulation of a concrete plan of action at the meeting. They remembered that Churchill's visit here after Pearl Harbor resulted in the decision to concentrate on the defeat of Hitler first; Churchill's second conference with President Roosevelt in Washington in the summer of 1942 preceded the invasion of French North Africa, and the Casablanca meeting saw the development of plans for the battle of Tunisia.

Discussion of the Russian-Polish controversy, and policies to be framed with the occupation of Europe, also were said to have entered in the latest Churchill-Roosevelt meeting.

UNEMPLOYMENT:
900,000 Still With Us

Despite booming business, there were still 900,000 unemployed in the United States in April, the census bureau reported. Of the number, however, were many merely enjoying an interval from one job to another.

While non - agricultural payrolls dropped 400,000 in the month, agricultural employment jumped 600,000, thus showing a general increase of 200,000 over the month of March.

According to the census bureau, the boost in agricultural employment reflected the return of many industrial laborers to the farms, and the early working of school boys.

CIVILIAN SUPPLY:
Agency for Consumers

If the U. S. senate has its way, the supply of civilian goods in America will become the responsibility of a powerful new independent agency answerable only to Stabilization Director James F. Byrnes.

A bill introduced by Senator Maloney of Connecticut and passed by a 44 to 29 vote, provides for the creation of a civilian supply administration which would determine the essential needs of consumers and then place its orders for materials and manpower for the production of the goods. These orders would have the same high ranking as those of the army and navy.

The new administration would replace the recently reformed office of civilian requirements within the War

SENATOR F. T. MALONEY
Would determine civilian needs.

Production board. Arthur D. Whiteside was appointed to head the reorganized office after protests that the WPB had sidetracked civilian industry in its concentration on war production.

Opponents of Maloney's bill contended the WPB office should be given an opportunity to operate before another new governmental agency is created.

LOCAL BOARDS:
OPA Increases Power

Authority of local rationing boards was greatly increased through a new order issued by the Office of Price Administration. Boards now can revoke gas ration books if they find the bearer has misinformed them upon applying for the book or if the operator of a commercial vehicle has violated a provision of the Office of Defense Transportation.

Ration books also may be revoked for speeding.

RUML PLAN:
Returned to Life

Buried more than a month ago, the Ruml plan has sprung back to life, and although it has slightly changed form, it is still recognizable in congress. The latest version of the Ruml plan would forgive all income taxes for one year, except those of persons excessively profiting from the war, and put the nation's taxpayers on a current basis.

According to the latest bill, a 20 per cent withholding tax after legal exemptions, would be imposed on all weekly wages or salaries, on either the 1942 or 1943 incomes, whichever are higher. The remaining year's taxes would be wiped out.

To guard against persons profiting from excessive profits from the war effort, regular normal and surtax rates would be applied against all income over the person's ordinary income for 1938, 39 or '40, plus a $10,000 exemption.

Provisions for special payments by farmers and professional people are included, indications being that farmers would pay all but the last installment this year, and then make a final settlement on March 15 of 1944. The latest bill differs from the one recently passed by the house, in that the house bill would merely forgive taxes on the normal and first surtax rate.

FRANCO:
'No One Can Win'

Appealing to "the conscience of peoples," Spanish Chief of State Francisco Franco again called upon the warring powers to come to peace.

Asserting that the present conflict had reached a deadlock, Franco said that neither side now has the power to destroy the other.

"The world has now undergone three years of war and when this time is passed it is fitting to think of peace, of ending hates and of bringing peoples together," Franco stated.

Again claiming that Spain has preserved her neutrality to be available to the warring powers as a mediator in negotiations, Franco declared: "Abroad, Spain demands a post which corresponds to her history in service, humanity and worth.

To Franco's plea, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden of Britain replied: "Our terms are unconditional surrender."

INVASION:
To Hit Underbelly?

Prime Minister Churchill's twaney reference some months ago to the Mediterranean shoreline as the "underbelly of Europe" was ill received in the Axis capitals. It was much better, Axis officials said, to refer to the territory as the "abdomen."

But "underbelly" or "abdomen," they both look alike to approximately a million Allied troops, facing Europe's southern boundary from one end of North Africa to the other. The big question on everyone's mind was: When will the United Nations swing the knockout punch at the enemy's midriff?

To counter the expected blow, the Nazis were feverishly completing coastal defenses in southern France. Whisked from North Africa, Marshal Rommel was reported inspecting fortifications in Greece, where the Germans have worked out an elaborate outer ring on the many Aegean islands leading to the mainland. Bulgaria was said to be putting the finishing touches on defenses facing neutral Turkey.

Matching the large Allied forces in North Africa are well over two million troops in England, poised for a thrust at any point, or series of points, along the whole occupied European mainland from Norway to southern France. When the invasion comes, several landings undoubtedly will be made, to spread the Nazi defense forces.

SUPREME COURT:
Free Air

In a decision read by Justice Felix Frankfurter, the Supreme court broke the grip oig radio chains repeatedly held over smaller stations. Whereas it was alleged the chains could compel affiliates to carry certain programs, and deny them the right to present others through contract terms, the Supreme court verdict now allows the smaller stations a free choice.

The Supreme court ruled that the Federal Communications commission's order of 1941 providing that no licenses shall be granted to stations or applicants having specified relationships with networks was within the law.

The two big chains contesting the FCC's order argued that the agency lacked the authority to formulate such a regulation. However, the 5 to 2 majority, speaking through Justice Frankfurter, declared:

"The act gave the (FCC) not niggardly but expansive powers . . ."

MISCELLANY:

CUT LINES: As an indication of the tenseness that has gripped southeastern Europe in the expectation of an Allied invasion, telephone communications have been cut between Axis Bulgaria and neutral Turkey.

TOO COMPLACENT: Rookies entering the army are too complacent and think the war is boy scout stuff, Maj. Gen. C. L. Scott at Fort Knox, Ky., has said.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Our men in the service in this war have pretty definite ideas about what they're fighting for and the way they want to find our country when they come back don't you think so, Judge?"

"I certainly do, George. Just a week or so ago I was reading in a national magazine the results of a poll taken among our soldiers. Each man was given a questionnaire containing twenty-five 'assignments' for the folks at home. He was asked to check the first five in order of importance to him.

"Out of thousands of replies the first 'assignment' to the folks back home was 'Make sure I'll have a job in my chosen field of work when I get back'. Number 5 was 'Make sure that Prohibition isn't put over on us again.'

"When the men in the last war came home and found prohibition had been put over on them behind their backs they were sore as boils. You can see from what I just told you how they feel about it this time, too."

Forged U. S. Check Peril Told by Secret Service

WASHINGTON.—The secret service is urging the public to be on guard against the theft and forgery of government checks, warning that the issuance of thousands of checks to servicemen's dependents might bring a revival of rackets that flourished in WPA days.

As a part of a nation-wide "know-your-informer" campaign, merchants, bankers and others were asked to be certain of the identity of persons cashing government checks. Those entitled to the checks were advised that to take precautions against the pilfering of their mail.

The rackets reached a peak when the government was distributing millions of checks for relief and farmer's benefits. In 1940, the service investigated 21,000 forgeries of government checks but the number dropped last year to 12,000.

What to Do
By PHYLLIS BELMONT

Please tell me when I should rise, when an older woman is around? I am 20.
ANSWER:
When at home or the home of a friend, it is polite to rise when your mother or some older woman enters the room, and you should offer the older woman your chair if it is the most comfortable in the room.
It is polite and courteous to give an older woman your seat in the trolley car or bus, but when you do it, do it willingly, not half-heartedly.

AMERICA IN ACTION

MERCHANT MARINE

Today, with every Liberty ship delivered into service, 41 or more experienced merchant seamen are needed to transform it into a moving, living link in our vital supply lines. Increased activity on all our fronts and the demands of total war placed upon our ships call for more experienced seamen than ever before. Ocean-going ships are being produced at the rate of four a day. More than 15 hundred will strike the water this year. These ships demand men. At this time there is a severe shortage of first, second and third assistant engineers, first and second mates, and able-bodied seamen. Our merchant ships need the experience which these marine engineers, mates, and A.B.'s have so that all our ships can sail on time. The War Shipping administration has recently issued a nation-wide call for on-shore seamen holding unlimited licenses or certificates to return to ship employment in order to meet the shortages.

To meet the demands of record-breaking production of merchant ships, and this total war program, the War Shipping administration is also conducting an intensive training program to provide the necessary personnel. Two basic schools and the United States Merchant Marine academy are training junior deck and engine officers in 18 months instead of the customary three years. Part of their training takes place aboard merchant ships in actual operation. Five state maritime academies are also training officers. They receive federal aid and are closely co-ordinated with the federal training program.

In addition, many apprentice seamen, radio operators, cooks, bakers, and corpsmen are being trained at seven training stations located on the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf Coasts.

These men are the future merchant marine "heroes in dungarees." They will become the brains, nerves, and muscles that guide and control cargo vessels along the sea lanes of the world. Without them, war supplies would pile up on American wharves and the Allied offensive at the front would be stalled. The men of the merchant marine bind America's production lines to the far-flung battlelines of the world as they intrepidly wage their own unrelating struggle on the vast battlefront of the sea.

FUN FOR YOUR FAMILY

By MISS ABBIE CONDIT
National Recreation Association.

Spring is family time. For instance, the first full week in May is celebrated in many churches as Family week. Then in June comes Children's day (June 13) and Father's day (June 20). What more appropriate season for an all-family party?

Through the Looking Glass Party. Who could resist an invitation to Looking Glass Land, beloved of childhood? The Red Queen and White Queen beckon from the invitation. This party could be used for a large crowd of fathers, mothers, daughters and sons. The party is followed by a buffet lunch.

Invitation. Write on white paper with rough edges. Figures are silhouettes cut from red paper and pasted on.

Come to a "Through the Looking Glass" Party.
O Looking Glass Creatures, quoth Alice, draw near.
'Tis an honor to see you, a favor to hear:
Let the Looking Glass Creatures, whoever they be,
Come and play with the Red Queen, the White Queen, and me.
Time: Date:
Place:

Games.

Looking Glass Signatures. This is a game which starts the ball rolling. It gives the early arrivals something to do, and each person as he arrives joins in. Paper and pencil are given to each person. The game is to go up to others and have them write their signatures in true looking glass style—backwards. Having obtained a signature, the player must write out the name as it is normally written. The person who has the longest list of correct names and signatures wins a prize.

White Knight's Problem. This is another game to play while people are arriving. A large jar of dry beans stands on a table. Beside it are pads of paper, pencils, and a box or man's hat upside-down (opera hat preferred). There is a sign over the table "The White Knight's Problem: How Many Beans in the Bottle?" People come up to the table, write out their guesses, sign them, and drop them in the hat. At the end of the evening, prizes are given for the best two guesses. To make the game fairly difficult, the number of beans should run into the thousands. If the party is an elaborate one, let the White Knight himself, in armor, preside over the box.

Wonderland Flower Garden. Players sit in a circle. Have two circles if number of players exceeds 40. Each player is given the name of some flower. It doesn't matter if your list of flowers runs out and several have the same flower. One player stands in the center of the circle and says, "I enter the garden and I want a rose and a lily." Players with those names must immediately change seats, while the center player endeavors to get one of the vacated seats. When he succeeds, the player losing out must take his place in the center. When the center announces a 'windstorm' all flowers must change seats.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving remembrance of our dear wife and mother, Mrs. Sidney Martin, who departed this life one year ago, May 19, 1943.

Just a tribute of love and remembrance,
To one we will never forget,
Her absence to us is a sorrow,
Her loss we will always regret.

Deep in our heart lies a picture
Of a loved one gone to rest,
In memory's frame we shall keep it
Because she was one of the best.

We loved her, yes, we loved her,
But Jesus loved her more,
And he has sweetly called her
To yonder's peaceful shore.
